Maverick Politician and lawmaker for Assin Central Constituency in the Central region, Kennedy Ohene Agyepong has promised to release a tall list of alleged corrupt ministers in the outgoing administration involved in shady deals.

He has therefore signaled all appointees in the Mahama-led administration to brace themselves for the biggest exposé in the coming days insisting that he will not sit aloof and allow them to go home to enjoy the loot from state coffers.

Speaking on Accra-based Oman Fm, he disclosed that some of the appointees in the outgoing administration may appear as angels but if the havoc they have wrecked the country's economy is made public it will shock Ghanaians to the bone.

"The documents are here and we shall be interrogating them in the coming days. Ghanaians will be shocked when details of these documents are made public. They will see the havoc these NDC appointees have wrecked the economy of the country which Nana Addo must struggle to build", he disclosed.

According to him, there are strenuous efforts to cover up some of the deals that have been characterized by corruption; maintaining that some of them have no hiding place and must duly answer for their actions.

In his view, President John Dramani Mahama will go into the history books as the worst thing to have happened to the country having superintended over a legacy of corrupt officials who amassed wealth at the expense of the tax payers.
